

the stand. Owing to the weather conditions many, however, stayed indoors and viewed the parade from their homes.

Weather Falls to Keep Crowd Away.
Despite weather conditions, the crowd which saw the parade surpassed expectations. In the throng were many spectators on pleasure. Tinklers, crying balloons and other fun-making devices were in evidence. The hot sandwich men were there as well as many other vendors. All did a thriving business. The police found a ready market to keep out the cold from the shivering throng.

During the early afternoon a buffet luncheon was served the distinguished guests at Lee Camp Hall. This was served by women identified with the Women's Auxiliary of R. E. Lee Camp. Vice-President and Mrs. Marshall and their house guest, Mrs. McCallum, were tendered a reception this evening by Representative and Mrs. C. C. Carlin, Mrs. Claude A. Swanson served punch; others assisting in serving guests were Miss Ella Broders and Mrs. C. W. Watkins.

Washington as Real Estate Dealer.
Washington, February 23.—While the House today overlooked the custom of having a member read Washington's farewell address from the Speaker's rostrum to commencing business, the real estate dealer, George Washington's participation in real estate deals at the national capital was the feature of debate today on District of Columbia legislation.

Representative Sisson, of Mississippi, Democrat, was questioning the propriety of property owning in the capital by representatives in Congress and others having to do with legislation relating to taxation of Washington real estate, when Representative Mann asked if the Mississippiian meant to cast any reflection on the father of his country, who owned a great deal of land in Washington, and so not believe in the father of our country. "Mr. Sisson began, when Mr. Mann interjected:

"He did the identical thing that the gentleman condemns."
"At that time he was not a member of Congress," replied Mr. Sisson. "He was never a member of either branch of Congress."
Mr. Mann replied that, nevertheless, George Washington, as President, had the veto power over congressional legislation.

"I do not believe, if what they say about it is true," responded Mr. Sisson, "that it is to the credit of the father of our country that he was interested in development of real estate here."

"I think it is very much to his credit," Mr. Mann retorted, "that when the Capital was located here he endeavored to develop it instead of opposing it."
Representative Garrett, of Tennessee, interrupted at this point to remind the debaters that Washington city was never the seat of the government of the United States.

Wilson Follows His Example.
February 23.—Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels in his address at the Washington's birthday celebration here today declared President Wilson had headed the admonitions of Washington, and in that spirit had received the approval of the people of the United States.

"We have witnessed in the last year exhibitions of the true American spirit in a way that would do the honor of George Washington good if he were alive," said Mr. Daniels. "In the spirit of Washington, President Wilson entered upon his duties a year ago as the leader, he summoned the members of the party to labor with him in remedying its ills. He did not stop there. He called on men of every party for counsel and co-operation."

Washington in his farewell address warned the country against "baneful effects of the passions aroused by the extremes of party spirit." Mr. Daniels declared that he believed the policy of party division and important legislation was past. Republican and Progressive views, he said, helped pass the tariff and currency bills, which were milestones in the path of the Democratic party traveled to redeem its pledges.

Observed by University.
Philadelphia, February 23.—The anniversary of the birth of George Washington today was observed by the University of Pennsylvania with exercises similar to those held for many years on this date at the birth of our President of the country. The orator of the day was the Rt. Rev.

Prices Snowed Under!

On—
Sweaters—
Heavy Lined Gloves—
Pajamas—
Mufflers—Shirts—
Lined Gauntlets—
Full Dress Reefers—
Trunks—Bags—etc.
Quality always the highest.

C. H. Derry

Ludien Lee Kinsolving, Bishop of Southern Baptist Various honorary degrees were conferred.

Senate Observes Day.
Washington, February 23.—George Washington's birthday anniversary today was observed in Congress with brief exercises. Vice-President Marshall broke a custom and made a brief address from his desk and Senator Swanson read General Washington's farewell address.

Former Queen Sees Parade.
Honolulu, February 23.—Former Queen Liliuokalani today sat beside the United States Army as it reviewed American soldiers passing in review. The troops, marching in a Washington's birthday parade, were reviewed by Governor Pinkham at the capital, and they passed on to a military reviewing stand.

The men in march included the First, Second and Twenty-fifth Infantry Regiments, the Fourth Cavalry, the First Artillery and the First Field Artillery of the National Guard of Hawaii.

House Agrees to Amend Judiciary Bill.
The House today agreed to amend the Judiciary bill by adding a provision for the payment of three-fifths of the salary of the judges of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia.

The most striking matter among the new bills was a provision for a government retraction committee, to sit in the interim between this and the next general Assembly, and report whether certain offices and institutions could not be abolished or merged with a consequent saving to the State and without impairing the efficiency of the service.

The bill was passed by a vote of 21 to 19. The bill was passed by a vote of 21 to 19.

Now he works seated in a chair.
A rather elderly man, solemn, bearded and wearing "specs," who stands all day at a high desk—that is the popular idea of a bookkeeper. Library Bureau has changed all that by inventing the unit record desk. It is a combination of a desk and a card file. The tops of the cards are on a level with the top of the desk—below the eye, underneath the hand. The bookkeeper, "card-keeper" is a better name for him, works seated in a chair.

A "card-keeper" can do more work than a bookkeeper, partly because he sits, not stands, but principally because a card is more quickly found than a page in a book.

Unit record desks are used, not only as ledger desks, but also for housing stock records, customers' lists, credit information, sales records, price quotations, orders, indexes, etc.

Let us show you exactly what the unit record desk will do for you.

Booklet on request.

Library Bureau

Manufacture distributors of Card and filing systems. Office, library and bank equipment. Unit card and filing cabinets in wood and steel.

Mutual Building, Richmond

Telephone Madison 4281

To Cure a Cold in One Day

Take LAXATIVE PROMIO QUININE Tablets. Druggists refund money if it fails to cure. E. W. GROVES' signature is on each box.—Adv.

work. The resolution was referred to the House Appropriations Committee.

THE HOUSE

The House of Delegates convened yesterday morning at 10 o'clock with the prayer by Rev. T. M. Mason, of the State Board of Charities and Corrections. After the preliminaries, which included a report from a committee on the bill to amend the act relating to the election of judges, the House proceeded to the consideration of the bill to amend the act relating to the election of judges.

Prices Snowed Under!
The House today overlooked the custom of having a member read Washington's farewell address from the Speaker's rostrum to commencing business, the real estate dealer, George Washington's participation in real estate deals at the national capital was the feature of debate today on District of Columbia legislation.

Representative Sisson, of Mississippi, Democrat, was questioning the propriety of property owning in the capital by representatives in Congress and others having to do with legislation relating to taxation of Washington real estate, when Representative Mann asked if the Mississippiian meant to cast any reflection on the father of his country, who owned a great deal of land in Washington, and so not believe in the father of our country.

"Mr. Sisson began, when Mr. Mann interjected: "He did the identical thing that the gentleman condemns."
"At that time he was not a member of Congress," replied Mr. Sisson. "He was never a member of either branch of Congress."

Mr. Mann replied that, nevertheless, George Washington, as President, had the veto power over congressional legislation. "I do not believe, if what they say about it is true," responded Mr. Sisson, "that it is to the credit of the father of our country that he was interested in development of real estate here."

"I think it is very much to his credit," Mr. Mann retorted, "that when the Capital was located here he endeavored to develop it instead of opposing it."
Representative Garrett, of Tennessee, interrupted at this point to remind the debaters that Washington city was never the seat of the government of the United States.

Wilson Follows His Example.
February 23.—Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels in his address at the Washington's birthday celebration here today declared President Wilson had headed the admonitions of Washington, and in that spirit had received the approval of the people of the United States.

"We have witnessed in the last year exhibitions of the true American spirit in a way that would do the honor of George Washington good if he were alive," said Mr. Daniels. "In the spirit of Washington, President Wilson entered upon his duties a year ago as the leader, he summoned the members of the party to labor with him in remedying its ills. He did not stop there. He called on men of every party for counsel and co-operation."

Washington in his farewell address warned the country against "baneful effects of the passions aroused by the extremes of party spirit." Mr. Daniels declared that he believed the policy of party division and important legislation was past. Republican and Progressive views, he said, helped pass the tariff and currency bills, which were milestones in the path of the Democratic party traveled to redeem its pledges.

Observed by University.
Philadelphia, February 23.—The anniversary of the birth of George Washington today was observed by the University of Pennsylvania with exercises similar to those held for many years on this date at the birth of our President of the country. The orator of the day was the Rt. Rev.

Now he works seated in a chair.
A rather elderly man, solemn, bearded and wearing "specs," who stands all day at a high desk—that is the popular idea of a bookkeeper. Library Bureau has changed all that by inventing the unit record desk. It is a combination of a desk and a card file. The tops of the cards are on a level with the top of the desk—below the eye, underneath the hand. The bookkeeper, "card-keeper" is a better name for him, works seated in a chair.

A "card-keeper" can do more work than a bookkeeper, partly because he sits, not stands, but principally because a card is more quickly found than a page in a book.

Unit record desks are used, not only as ledger desks, but also for housing stock records, customers' lists, credit information, sales records, price quotations, orders, indexes, etc.

Let us show you exactly what the unit record desk will do for you.

Booklet on request.

Library Bureau

Manufacture distributors of Card and filing systems. Office, library and bank equipment. Unit card and filing cabinets in wood and steel.

Mutual Building, Richmond

Telephone Madison 4281

To Cure a Cold in One Day

Take LAXATIVE PROMIO QUININE Tablets. Druggists refund money if it fails to cure. E. W. GROVES' signature is on each box.—Adv.

work. The resolution was referred to the House Appropriations Committee.

THE HOUSE

The House of Delegates convened yesterday morning at 10 o'clock with the prayer by Rev. T. M. Mason, of the State Board of Charities and Corrections. After the preliminaries, which included a report from a committee on the bill to amend the act relating to the election of judges, the House proceeded to the consideration of the bill to amend the act relating to the election of judges.

Prices Snowed Under!
The House today overlooked the custom of having a member read Washington's farewell address from the Speaker's rostrum to commencing business, the real estate dealer, George Washington's participation in real estate deals at the national capital was the feature of debate today on District of Columbia legislation.

Representative Sisson, of Mississippi, Democrat, was questioning the propriety of property owning in the capital by representatives in Congress and others having to do with legislation relating to taxation of Washington real estate, when Representative Mann asked if the Mississippiian meant to cast any reflection on the father of his country, who owned a great deal of land in Washington, and so not believe in the father of our country.

"Mr. Sisson began, when Mr. Mann interjected: "He did the identical thing that the gentleman condemns."
"At that time he was not a member of Congress," replied Mr. Sisson. "He was never a member of either branch of Congress."

Mr. Mann replied that, nevertheless, George Washington, as President, had the veto power over congressional legislation. "I do not believe, if what they say about it is true," responded Mr. Sisson, "that it is to the credit of the father of our country that he was interested in development of real estate here."

"I think it is very much to his credit," Mr. Mann retorted, "that when the Capital was located here he endeavored to develop it instead of opposing it."
Representative Garrett, of Tennessee, interrupted at this point to remind the debaters that Washington city was never the seat of the government of the United States.

Wilson Follows His Example.
February 23.—Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels in his address at the Washington's birthday celebration here today declared President Wilson had headed the admonitions of Washington, and in that spirit had received the approval of the people of the United States.

"We have witnessed in the last year exhibitions of the true American spirit in a way that would do the honor of George Washington good if he were alive," said Mr. Daniels. "In the spirit of Washington, President Wilson entered upon his duties a year ago as the leader, he summoned the members of the party to labor with him in remedying its ills. He did not stop there. He called on men of every party for counsel and co-operation."

Washington in his farewell address warned the country against "baneful effects of the passions aroused by the extremes of party spirit." Mr. Daniels declared that he believed the policy of party division and important legislation was past. Republican and Progressive views, he said, helped pass the tariff and currency bills, which were milestones in the path of the Democratic party traveled to redeem its pledges.

Observed by University.
Philadelphia, February 23.—The anniversary of the birth of George Washington today was observed by the University of Pennsylvania with exercises similar to those held for many years on this date at the birth of our President of the country. The orator of the day was the Rt. Rev.

Now he works seated in a chair.
A rather elderly man, solemn, bearded and wearing "specs," who stands all day at a high desk—that is the popular idea of a bookkeeper. Library Bureau has changed all that by inventing the unit record desk. It is a combination of a desk and a card file. The tops of the cards are on a level with the top of the desk—below the eye, underneath the hand. The bookkeeper, "card-keeper" is a better name for him, works seated in a chair.

A "card-keeper" can do more work than a bookkeeper, partly because he sits, not stands, but principally because a card is more quickly found than a page in a book.

Unit record desks are used, not only as ledger desks, but also for housing stock records, customers' lists, credit information, sales records, price quotations, orders, indexes, etc.

Let us show you exactly what the unit record desk will do for you.

Booklet on request.

Library Bureau

Manufacture distributors of Card and filing systems. Office, library and bank equipment. Unit card and filing cabinets in wood and steel.

Mutual Building, Richmond

Telephone Madison 4281

To Cure a Cold in One Day

Take LAXATIVE PROMIO QUININE Tablets. Druggists refund money if it fails to cure. E. W. GROVES' signature is on each box.—Adv.

Most Popular Railroad Conductor

The Times-Dispatch Voting Coupon
A Solid Silver Lantern will be given by The Times-Dispatch to the most popular Railroad Conductor running into or out of Richmond.

I hereby cast one vote for Name.....
Railroad.....
Address.....
Mail all coupons to POPULARITY MANAGER
The Times-Dispatch.
This Coupon Not Good After February 28.
Contest Ends February 28, 1914.

vision was bitterly attacked by Senator Tamm, as imposing an undue burden on the rural population, bred to the idea that every person enjoys the incident of the hunt without tax.

If the $1 gun tax feature was retained, said Senator Tamm, he would be forced to vote against the bill. The game commissioner and providing for the payment of the State Treasury, he said, was to reduce the expenses of operation in order that the $1 resident tax might be stricken out.

Amendment Lost.
Senator Walker opposed the substitution on the ground that to adopt it would be to violate the whole law in order to enforce the proposed game law, he said, money will be required to maintain an efficient game warden. It was his belief, he said, that no man capable of discharging the duties of the game commissioner would be found who would work for the love of the work alone, and that to get an efficient game warden a salary would have to be paid.

The revenues for the support of the game law, he said, would be paid in large part from the $1 resident tax, since the rural population is the largest class of hunters. To remove the tax, he thought, was tantamount to nullifying the law.

In this view Senator Cannon, of Richmond, concurred. The Senate desired to kill the bill, he said, it could do better than to adopt the Tamm amendment, which struck at every foundation. Senator Smith presented several petitions from citizens asking that the bill be passed.

The amendment was put to a vote, and was defeated by a big majority. The Senate proceeded to the consideration of several other immaterial sections which aroused no contest, and adjourned at 2 o'clock. The consideration of the bill will be resumed at 12:45 o'clock this afternoon.

The only other important of yesterday's session was the incorporation of an amendment in the general appropriation bill, which was passed by a 35-29 vote. This amendment made the change the Senate reconsidered the vote by which the bill was passed on Saturday.

Senator Garrett proposed that of the $5,000, $35,000 be applied to the fund for the construction and support of one-room schools and the balance applied to the two, three and four-room schools. He withdrew his amendment. Senator Featherston, who gave $5,000 to the one-room schools and $35,000 to the two, three and four-room schools, was then passed.

Immediately before adjournment Senator Garrett offered a resolution which was adopted, under which the Senate will adjourn at 12 o'clock on Monday, instead of at 2 o'clock, as has been the custom. In obedience to the terms of the resolution, the Senate adjourned at 12 o'clock.

The Senate adopted resolutions of respect to the memory of Charles Pinckney, a member of the Senate, who died on Sunday in Highland County.

Here and There in the Legislature
"It's all over. We've locked the door and thrown away the key," said Senator Richard L. Brewer, Jr., member of the House of Delegates from Suffolk and chairman of the House Appropriations Committee. "The game law is a dead letter. It's all over."

Senator Brewer was speaking of the game law, which he believed was a dead letter. He said that the game law was a dead letter because it was not enforced. He said that the game law was a dead letter because it was not enforced.

To Reduce Salary.
Senator Featherston sent an amendment to the desk which provided an annual salary of $1,000 for the commissioner to maintain his office anywhere in the State. He justified the amendment by saying that it was his purpose to take the office out of the hands of the State sportsmen, he said, would be to reduce the salary to $1,000 a year.

Would Vitalize Law.
If the Senate adopts this amendment the law will be a dead letter before it is born," said Senator Hart, speaking against the proposed change. "It strikes at the very heart of the whole matter. The office of game commissioner will be no more. It is proposed to reduce the salary of the commissioner to $1,000 a year, and to reduce the salary of the game warden to $500 a year."

Opposes $1 Gun Tax.
In the discussion on the substitute there was heard the big issue which more than any other feature of the bill will arouse opposition. It relates to the tax of $1 which the law proposes to levy upon every resident of a county for the privilege of hunting. The proposition was to reduce the tax to 50 cents.

Why Suffer With Your Eyes?
The House Committee on Privileges and Elections has reported favorably the White resolution for an amendment to the State Constitution, which would provide for a referendum on any initiative and referendum proposed by the people.

There are a number of resolutions looking to amend the State Constitution pending as joint resolutions. Those adopted at this session have to lay over for two years. The next regular session and then are submitted to a vote of the people.

Don't fail to secure one of these splendid 88-Note

Player Pianos

at the Special Price—

$375

Reduced from $450 for this week's selling. They are fine-toned, fully guaranteed instruments. Come in to-day and see what a remarkable value it is. Terms if desired.

The Corley Company

The House That Made Richmond Musical

213 E. Broad Street

Correct appropriation from the treasury. As the State property assessments have increased from year to year, this fund has been used as a source of revenue for the State.

As the State property assessments have increased from year to year, this fund has been used as a source of revenue for the State. The State has been using this fund for the purpose of maintaining the State property assessments.

Council Brewer is of the opinion that in all such cases the fees and assessments and special taxes should be paid directly into the State treasury and be appropriated out for the support of the various departments, thus giving the General Assembly a direct control and supervision of expenditures.

The same abuses, it is believed, exist with regard to State institutions, which derive a revenue from fees of students or inmates. These fees are paid directly into the State treasury and are appropriated out for the support of the various departments.

It was to investigate all such matters, Judge Martin Williams explained last night, that he offered yesterday a resolution for an appropriation of $100,000 for the support of the various departments. Judge Williams explained that while the whole State was in a state of confusion, he believed that the State should be able to provide funds for what he believed to be a proper expenditure.

He said that the State should be able to provide funds for what he believed to be a proper expenditure. He said that the State should be able to provide funds for what he believed to be a proper expenditure.

The Pamunkey Tribe of Indians will descend in force on the House Committee on the Chesapeake and its Tributaries and will demand an appropriation of $100,000 for the support of the various departments.

A public hearing was held before the Senate Committee on General Laws yesterday afternoon in the Senate Chamber for the abatement of immaterial resorts. Without final action, the matter went over to tomorrow.

The bill is similar in its terms to the Land Bill, introduced in the House. Several days ago the House discharged its committee on General Laws from further consideration of the bill, and placed it on the calendar.

Some differences of opinion developed between some workers and the House as to whether the bill should provide that an action might be brought by "any responsible citizen." The initiative should be taken by the constituted authorities or some definite organization, he said.

It was admitted that great harm might be done in any city by some irresponsible citizen. It was admitted that great harm might be done in any city by some irresponsible citizen.

The Most Wonderful Work in the World
Mr. Wm. Danner, United States secretary of the International Leprosy Mission, will speak at the Centenary Church on Wednesday night, and at Grace Church, Main and Foushee, on Thursday night. He will tell of the greatest philanthropic work, now or ever, on this earth, telling of eighty asylums of this mission now planted in the East. In which are housed 10,000 lepers, an army of missionaries, medical missionaries, trained nurses and caretakers being employed in the terrible task of nursing and caring for them.

And especially he will describe the homes in which thousands of their untainted children are reared and educated, entirely apart from the deadly contact of their leper parents.

Mr. Wm. Danner, United States secretary of the International Leprosy Mission, will speak at the Centenary Church on Wednesday night, and at Grace Church, Main and Foushee, on Thursday night. He will tell of the greatest philanthropic work, now or ever, on this earth, telling of eighty asylums of this mission now planted in the East.